Arabs And Jews To Confer After First Of Year

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

LONDON.—Proposed Government conferences with Arabs and Jews to effect amicable settlement of the prolonged Palestine conflict will not begin until after the New Year, it was learned, although Colonial Secretary Malcolm MacDonald is already informally seeing Arab representatives and Zionist leaders with whom he is in frequent communication. The impending debates in the House of Commons and the House of Lords are expected strongly to influence the Government's attitude, since strong sentiment in favor of retention of the League mandate and wider Jewish immigration, sharpened by realization of the need to aid the Jews resulting from the Nazi pogroms, is expected to be demonstrated.

The Government will enter the discussions bound by its obligations both to the Jews and Arabs under the mandate, but will permit either to advance arguments for modification of the mandate, MacDonald told Commons. He declared the Government was already in communication with Arab states neighboring Palestine regarding participation in the consultations, but rejected suggestions that he also invite the United States and Polish Governments to be represented.

In a broadcast address later, Mr. MacDonald stressed that the Palestine problem would be solved by political, not military action in the event a round-table conference did not help the Government in deciding a policy. In Commons, he ruled thumbs down on possible participation of the exiled ex-Mufti of Jerusalem in the round-table conference. The Mufti's past record makes him "wholly unacceptable," Mr. MacDonald said. "This House will have observed that the Government reserved the right to refuse to receive leaders whom they regard as responsible for the campaign of assassination and violence."

The London discussions will be in two phases—the first between Palestine Arabs and neighboring states, on the one hand, and Britain, on the other hand, and the second between representatives of the Jewish Agency for Palestine and the British Government, Mr. MacDonald said. It was understood parallel discussions will be held to be followed by a joint round-table conference if the preliminaries are successful.

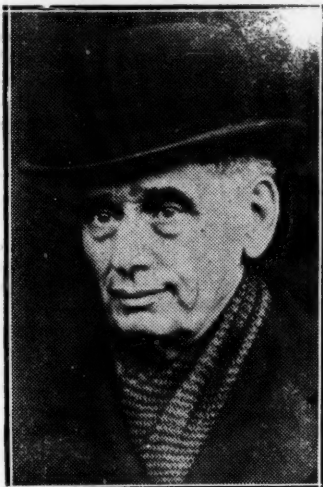

Zionist Maps Stand

LONDON.—The Zionist General Council continued in emergency session to map the Zionist course of action with regard to the proposed conferences. Declaring a new period of struggle for Jewish rights was opening in Palestine, Moshe Shertok, head of the Jewish Agency political department, told the Council that Palestine Jewry was sufficiently rooted in the country's soil to resist attacks and to move ahead. Dr. Israel Goldstein, president of the Jewish National Fund of America, declared the United States should be invited to the London conferences on Palestine along with the Arab states.

New Colony Is England's Plan

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

NEW YORK.—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain is considering a direct approach to President Roosevelt for Anglo-American co-operation in mass removal of Jews from Germany, the New York Times reported from London.

The British plan is that governments and private citizens together would provide ships and money, that the British and United States Governments would ask the German Government's help in arranging emigration and that temporary refuge camps might be established until permanent settlements could be found, the dispatch said. George Rublee was stated to be studying possibilities of establishing another Jewish national home in some relatively empty and secure part of the world. He has examined several places, among them parts

Pleasureville Complains As Cupid Robs Village Of Its Editor-Philosopher

By HERMAN LANDAU

PLEASUREVILLE, Ky.—Cupid, welcomed everywhere with open arms, is rated as a public enemy these days in this rustic trading post with a population of 615. For Cupid, though his intentions be good, robbed this community of its publisher, lawyer, and philosopher, all rolled into one.

Pleasureville's pundit was Sol Schulman, Louisville newspaperman who nearly two years ago came here to establish a weekly newspaper. It was not so much the influence of a newspaper that the plump, pedagogical young man gave the town, it was his jovial kind-hearted personality. Mr. Schulman, still in his early thirties, was an inspiring philosophical figure, always ready with a kind word and a helping hand, no matter what the occasion. In fact, his selection of Pleasureville for his newspaper was due in no small part to the name of the place.

WORLD AROUSED TO ACTION AS NAZIS ENFORCE BRAZEN REGULATIONS ON JEWS

Chamberlain, England Join Protest

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

LONDON.—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain this week evidenced Britain's concern over anti-Jewish depredations and decrees in Germany by telling the House of Commons there was "deep and widespread sympathy for those who have been made to suffer so severely" for "the senseless crime committed in Paris." It was to be regretted that press reports of action taken against Jews in Germany were substantially correct, Chamberlain said at question time. The reports had been to some extent corroborated by Propaganda Minister Josef Goebbels, he pointed out.

All shades of public opinion in England united in condemnation of the Nazi pogroms, with special prayers for the victims being included in services in scores of churches throughout the land in accordance with a plea by the Archbishop of Canterbury. At Durham, a Diocesan conference adopted a resolution expressing horror at the pogroms and assuring the Jewish community of its deep sympathy during their "terrible trials."

Lord Meston, president of the Liberal Party organization, issued a statement expressing "indignation and disgust" at the persecution of Jews and pledging to support the Government in whatever influence it would bring to bear on Germany to stop the atrocities. Earl de la Warr, Lord Privy Seal and president of the Board of Education, declared the excesses indicated that for those desiring to defend the decencies of life it was necessary to be strong in arms and morally. Mrs. Walter Elliot, wife of the Health Minister, said in a speech that it was impossible to read of the happenings in Germany without feeling that "we are back in the Middle Ages."

The Sunday Times, denouncing the persecutions as a "slide back to barbarism," urged that the only permanent solution for Jewry was a national home. The Sunday Observer stressed the danger to Anglo-German relations, declaring brutality and atrocity "pass the understanding of normal human beings" and terming the pogroms "inhuman fury." Speaking at Northampton, Sir Archibald Sinclair, Liberal M. P., described the German pogrom as the most ferocious since the Middle Ages. It must be made clear to Germany, he declared, that if she wants friendship she must cease persecuting and robbing Jews and "flinging them upon the charity of neighbors." Referring to the question of colonies, he declared that Britain could not hand over the primitive people of Africa to a Government permitting even the instigating of "vile outbursts of frenzied barbarism."

of Southern Africa and Northern Rhodesia.

International News Service reported that Britain was preparing shortly to approach the United States with a proposal to create a new Jewish territorial state in South Africa, guaranteed by the major powers, including the U. S. Under the plan, Palestine would remain the Jewish national home, but along restricted lines, with its Jews maintaining autonomy in a federated state allied with Britain.

The Government's renewed activity is attributed in official circles to the persistency of United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy, who has been in frequent communication with Downing Street on the question for several days. Kennedy was represented as having urged the British Government to take a keener interest in the refugee problem and having stressed the need for intergovernmental co-operation.

There is believed to be a possibility of Palestine's playing a role in the plan under discussion. Kennedy visited Malcolm MacDonald, Colonial and Dominions Secretary, on Sunday, and Palestine was presumably one of the subjects discussed.

ACTIVITY CURTAILED

PRAHA.—While the Praha Government is energetically suppressing anti-Jewish activities in Bohemia, anti-Semitism is enjoying free rein in Slovakia. Five hundred Jewish students have been dismissed from Bratislava University, allegedly as Communists. Anti-Jewish excesses and agitation are continuing on the pretext that the Jews were responsible for Slovakia's dismemberment. A broadcast from Bratislava accused "Jewish bands" of responsibility for attacks against German shops. The Bratislava police are discriminating against the Jews in the matter of currency regulations, permitting departing "Aryans" to take with them 500 kronen while allowing Jews only 50.

Mounting Wave Of Protest Sweeps Through Nation

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

NEW YORK.—A mounting wave of indignation swept through the United States over pogroms in Germany, reflected in the nation's press and on the radio by Christian and Jewish religious and lay organizations, and by individuals of national prominence. Many appeals were made to President Roosevelt to speak out against Nazi barbarism.

Among prominent individuals issuing statements, under auspices of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, were Herbert Hoover, Sinclair Lewis, Bishop Manning and William Green. Following is a brief summary of the general reaction to the German developments:

Press: Newspapers in every part of the country published editorials condemning the savagery of the anti-Jewish excesses. New York newspapers, which had printed strong editorials on the day following the pogroms, devoted considerable space to excerpts from editorials in the provincial press. Newspapers throughout the country featured cartoons showing Nazi barbarism. The New York Times published three leading editorials on the subject.

Radio: District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey and former Governor Alfred E. Smith were featured speakers on a broadcast over the Intercity network. Dewey appealed to world opinion to halt "the savagery of barbarism" behind "the bloody pogrom," while Smith declared the challenge raised by the German developments "was not merely a Jewish question, a Catholic question, a Protestant question, but one which goes to the very foundation on which we have erected America."

Organizations: Twelve Catholic Bishops, the three organized religious groups of American Jewry and 17 major Protestant denominations endorsed a call by the National Conference of Jews and Christians to special prayers for the victims of racial and religious prejudices "throughout the world" on Saturday and Sunday. The Board of Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church, in convention at Atlantic City, addressed a request to the United States Government to make official protest to Germany against the riots. The resolution containing the request protested "such incredibly inhuman and unjustifiable deeds."

Washington: While no official comment was forthcoming from the Government, Senator William H. King of Utah issued a statement urging severance of diplomatic relations with Germany. Secretary of State Cordell Hull called German Ambassador Hans Dieckhoff to the State Department for a 15-minute conversation, during which they were reported to have discussed the new measures against German Jews. Senator Borah, in a statement to the J. T. A., laid responsibility for the pogroms on the German Government. (Continued on Page 8)

6 JEWS RE-ELECTED TO CONGRESS; 3 LOSE

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency
WASHINGTON.—The number of Jews in Congress was reduced as a result of Republican displacement of Democratic Representatives in many parts of the country. Re-elected were Sol Bloom, Emanuel Celler, Samuel Dickstein and William I. Strovich, New York; Adolph A. J. Sabbath, Illinois (who is in line to become chairman of the influential House Rules Committee); Leon Sacks, Pennsylvania. Defeated were Herman P. Koppleman and William M. Citron, Connecticut, and Henry Ellenbogen, Pennsylvania.

rooms directly at the door of the Reich Government.

Meanwhile, police guards were posted about the German consulates here and in Boston following bombing threats over the telephone. The New York consulate was picketed by 70 members of the American League for Peace and Democracy, who carried placards bearing such legends as "murder is not government," "murders of Jews and Catholics must stop," and "no trade with gangsters and murderers."

In a sermon in Washington, Archbishop Michael J. Curley of Baltimore denounced Adolf Hitler as a mad man and labeled the Nazi Propaganda Minister as "the cripple-minded Goebbels. He said: 'If Hitler does not like what I say about him and his cripple-minded Minister of Propaganda, let him take up the matter with Secretary of State Cordell Hull as he did when Cardinal Mundelein criticized him.'

The General Council of the American Jewish Committee, American Jewish Congress, B'nai B'rith and Jewish Labor Committee, issued a statement declaring: "This reaction of the entire world is a recognition that we are here confronted with an issue which goes far beyond the persecution and torture of a particular minority, and that today it is civilization itself which is under attack. MADISON, Wis.—Sol Levitan, State treasurer, was one of those who failed of re-election when the Progressive Party was swept out of office in this State.

Americans—Protestants, Catholics and Jews alike—have reacted to these hideous accounts from abroad as to a national calamity. Excerpts of statements by noted men, as gathered by the Federal Council of Churches, follow:

Herbert Hoover: "Those men are building their own condemnation by mankind for centuries to come. They are destroying every effort of the friends of the German people who have sought to be of aid to them." Sinclair Lewis: "Nothing that Germany has ever done has aroused such horror or opposition as her present treatment of Jews." Bishop William T. Manning: "Such action as that which is now taking place in Germany is an open defiance of God and a shame to humanity." William Green, president of the A. F. of L.: "In the name and in behalf of the millions of members of the American Federation of Labor I register my vigorous protest against the barbarous and brutal treatment accorded the Jewish people in Germany." In her syndicated column, Dorothy Thompson expressed her feelings of revulsion in the form of an open letter to "a Jewish friend," declaring the crisis not Jewish, but human and the issue "not whether Judaism will survive but whether the common civilization that runs from the Greeks to our own day will survive."

President Roosevelt Tuesday condemned persecution of Jews in Germany as events he would think impossible "in a twentieth century civilization" and revealed that he had ordered the return of Ambassador Hugh Wilson for "report and consultation."

Reports from the provinces of Germany revealed conditions more horrifying than those that prevailed during the 14-hour pogrom which shocked the world. At Leipzig, rabbis and Jewish leaders were driven to the river's edge and forced to stand there most of the day before being taken to jail. In Vienna, Jews were forced to lie in the streets while S. A. (storm troop) men marched over them. At Brandenburg, Jews were reliably reported forced to run a gauntlet in the streets. At Caputh, near Potsdam, a Jewish orphanage was closed down without notice, the children being herded to the door and left to shift for themselves. A Jewish institution at Lehnitz, housing several hundred children, adolescents in training for emigration, and aged, was shut down and its occupants scattered.

Julian Seltor Says Small Town Is No Handicap

By JULIAN SELTOR

Perhaps it is because I have a natural antipathy for anonymous opinions, or that I am moved by civic pride, or it may be that I am naturally intolerant of intolerance that I write this, my first reply to any printed opinion in any periodical. But a few weeks ago in the columns of The Post there appeared an article written by a Jewish girl whom I do not know from a city which I am unable to identify that presumed to analyze a typical Indiana small town having a typical small Jewish community. She made some very serious accusations against her gentile community that I cannot refute for that city, but I do not believe these accusations to be true generally in Indiana, or for that matter elsewhere except perhaps in isolated communities.

It has been my lot to have lived in several small towns in Indiana and Ohio and I am intimately acquainted with a great many more. In my opinion, (and from the opportunities for observation I have had I believe I am qualified to have an opinion) the indictment is to be made against the person rather than against society. It is true that a small town has many disadvantages for a young Jew or Jewess, but these disadvantages seem to me to be disproportionately and inversely represented in this girl's letter. A small Jewish community is deficient in the opportunities for Jewish education and in many cases for adequate facilities for worship. They seldom are able to have a resident rabbi and very often they are deprived of the opportunities for service to Jewry that all good Jews cherish. In many small communities they are unable to support a B'nai B'rith, a Hadassah, a Zionist group, or more often they are without leadership of any kind. But none of these disadvantages are imposed upon them by their gentile neighbors and they are not being discriminated against by anyone.

I am able to say without the least equivocation that I know of no member of the Jewish community of which I am a part that has been barred from any communal activity because he happened to have been a Jew. It is true that any or all of us would have been refused membership in the following organizations because of our Jewishness were we to have applied:

Bias Law Invoked
By Jewish Telegraphic Agency
WEST NEW YORK, N. J.—A printshop proprietor identified by police as a member of the German-American Bund was held under $3,000 bail in what the committing magistrate said he believed was the first time New Jersey's new statute providing a jail sentence or fine for spreading propaganda tending to incite racial or religious hatred had been invoked. Ferdinand Heppeler, forty-six, of adjacent Guttenberg, was found in possession of stickers bearing pictures caricaturing the Jewish race and slogans reading "Vote Gentile—Buy Gentile."

The Knights of Columbus, The Christian Endeavor Society, or the Baptist Young Peoples League and other strictly sectarian groups. But I am unable to conjure up any animosity against them for his knowledge. I doubt seriously that non-Jewish petitions for membership would be received favorably in a B'nai B'rith or Temple Sisterhood ballot. It is true, however, that there are in every city (large or small) certain allegedly select clubs that purport to represent the ultra ultra of society and deem it necessary to exclude Jews from their rosters and to which no person is admitted save by invitation. To groups of this kind no self-respecting Jew would apply as a matter of principle, therefore, we need not get hurt. Social status is not a Jewish concept even though some Jews prefer to discriminate against their own less commercially successful coreligionists.

Insofar as the young lady indicts her gentile acquaintances for intolerance in attitude I can only say that that situation is not confined to small towns. The only possible solution being to seek people whose minds are developed beyond such bigoted concepts. But the fact remains that small towns have no monopoly on narrowness and that the rare possibility that she herself may be hyper-sensitive as a Jewess may be more than half the cause for her situation. In the conclusion of her letter she states that there should be national or state organizations to remedy these unfortunate disadvantages. She does read Jewish periodicals and I suggest that in the future if she were to scan the columns of The Post and other papers, magazines, and periodicals available she may find that there has been in Indiana for the last five years the Indiana Union of Jewish Youth which seems to me to be the very thing for which she is asking.

There is, of course, one thing that should be considered before drawing to a conclusion this answer to her statements, that being, that I do realize that a young lady cannot easily arrange social engagements for herself with men, but if she were to take a sincere and active interest in Jewish affairs and by her sincerity of purpose prove competent, then, perhaps, her problems would diminish in proportion to her willingness to become a woman in Israel.

Big Anti-Semitic Signs Painted On I. U. Campus

BLOOMINGTON, Ind.—Campus life for the 200 Jewish students at the University of Indiana was slowly returning to normal Friday following one of the worst anti-Semitic incidents in the history of this state-supported institution.

Students awoke Wednesday morning to find the campus sidewalks painted with "Jews Out" in large letters in bright yellow paint. The scurrilous signs were painted in front of the Chemistry Building, the Medical Building and on the sidewalk on Third Street between the Hillel House and the Phi Beta Delta fraternity house.

Aroused and excited, the Jewish student body was hurriedly called into a mass meeting at 4 p. m. Wednesday at the Hillel House by Rabbi Martin Perley, Hillel director. Rabbi Perley told the students about what action had already been taken, and opened the floor for a discussion of policy. The students were also addressed by Professor Nathan Silverstein, of the Business School. Rabbi Perley explained that President Herman Wells, when notified of the signs, ordered an immediate investigation to determine whether the signs had been painted by students. University workmen removed the signs, Rabbi Perley said, and the police removed the sign on Third Street, which was on city property. The police also promised an investigation.

Another anti-Semitic incident was charged to the same source when the sign-marking the Hillel House was stolen. Carried away the first time over Halloween, Rabbi Perley dismissed the incident.

then as a childish prank. But Wednesday morning, the new sign was stolen, leading authorities to believe that the same anti-Semitic organization had perpetrated both acts.

At the mass meeting students decided to keep calm about the situation. No publicity appeared in the student daily. One of the students in the discussion at the mass meeting revealed that a short time ago anti-Semitic pamphlets had been distributed among I. U. students, but no other student was able to verify the occurrence.

Ticket Sale For Thanksgiving Night Dance Heavy, Beth El Reports

With ticket sales exceeding that of any past year, anticipations for a capacity crowd at the Beth El Men's Club annual Thanksgiving night dance were voiced this week by committee members.

The dance will be held in the Riley room of the Claypool Hotel and Louis Lowe and his orchestra will furnish the music. Traditionally one of the outstanding events of the winter season, the dance this year is expected to draw an even larger attendance. All organizations of Beth El, including the Sisterhood and the Congregation are co-operating with the Men's Club in the affair.

Commenting on the surprisingly large advance sale of tickets, Jerome Wachter, president of the Men's Club, declared that the Thanksgiving dance had been growing in popularity from year to year. "The dance is almost an institution in the social life of the Indianapolis Jewish community," Mr. Wachter said.

Dancing will begin at 9 p. m. Admission will be $1.00 a person and ticket sales are in charge of Irving Ruben, Jack Klapper and Milton Fineberg. The general committee on arrangements is composed of Ed Fassburg, Louis Sakowitz, Phil Grenwald, Jacob Solotken, Sam Hoffman, Mrs. Leon Berger, Mrs. Aaron Glick, Mrs. Sam Dobrowitz, Mrs. Max Selig, Mrs. Hyman Grande, Dave Herman, Sam Hochman and Dave Hollander.

Scouting the Shops

By MILDRED COHEN
HILLMAN'S

No doubt the one big reason why HILLMAN'S remains the finest and most outstanding shop in Indianapolis is because Hillman's are not a department store, and they don't try to sell a little bit of everything. They specialize in apparel for women and girls, this includes the young sophisticate up to a no age limit but (not the doting matron or the old fashioned school marm). HILLMAN'S devote their entire energy to procuring the newest, the daintiest, the smartest and finest in feminine attire. So we say orchids to HILLMAN'S for not trying to be a novice at all trades but remaining the master of one.

INDIANA FUR CO.

For ultra-smartness in fur apparel join the crowds for a visit to the INDIANA FUR CO. across the street from the Post Office. They are now celebrating their fifty-fourth anniversary with a sale of fur coats that have been hand-picked like precious jewels. Every popular fur of the season, in glorious styles, is featured in this outstanding event of the year. Here are just a few of the many types of fur coats that may be bought: Dyed Fitch Skunk Coats, Fine Caraculs, Genuine Silver Fox Chubbies, etc. With your purchase of a luxurious fur coat (at a surprisingly low figure) let me suggest you select a jaunty looking fur hat to match for just the small sum of $3, $5, or $10. It will give you that added dash. I know that after you have made your final selection of both coat and hat you will agree with me that INDIANA FUR CO. is the right place to purchase furs.

City Mourns Death Of Mrs. H. A. Jacobs

Indianapolis Jewry lost one of its prominent women this week in the death Sunday of Mrs. Naomi Marer Jacobs, wife of Dr. Harry A. Jacobs. She was 61. Funeral services were held Tuesday morning in the Aaron-Ruben Funeral Home. Rabbi Morris M. Feuerlicht officiated and burial was in the Indianapolis Hebrew Cemetery.

Mrs. Jacobs was a former president of the Temple Sisterhood and the Council of Jewish Women and a member of the Indianapolis Hebrew Congregation. Born in Indianapolis, she had lived here all her life and taught in the Indianapolis public schools for several years prior to her marriage to Dr. Jacobs in 1905. She was active in the Liberty Loan campaigns here during the World War. She was also a member of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Indianapolis Medical Society.

Survivors are her husband, two sisters, Mrs. Richard Oppel of Bridgeport, Conn. and Mrs. William Lowenberg of New York, and a brother, Ralph L. Marer of Columbus, O.

Floyd Beitman, chairman of the membership committee, reported this week, that excellent progress was being made in the membership drive.

The mezuzah is attached to the doorpost of the house in fulfillment of Deuteronomy vi. 9, "and thou shalt write them on the doorposts of thy house, and within thy gates." The mezuzah is a scroll on which this section of Deuteronomy is written and inserted in a metal or wooden case, which has a little opening through which the word "Shaddai" written on the back of the scroll, is visible. It is affixed in a slanting position to the upper part of the right-hand door post. Josephus mentions its use an ancient custom even in his day.

Our Film Folk

of HOLLYWOOD

By HELEN ZIGMOND

HOLLYWOOD.—After listening to the "Great Waltz" we're tapping keys in "drei-viertel takt". Musically it is superb! The M.G.M. Symphony Orchestra breathes life, laughter, and love into the immortal music of Johann Strauss II. The strains of Toscha Seidel's violin ring out full and rich, though he remains invisible to the screen. Production values are of high calibre. As for the acting . . . It seems of lesser importance. Luise Rainer performs nobly . . . but her part belies the credit sheet. She is by no means the star either in story significance or footage. Seems rather a slight by her home lot to which she had brought two Academy Awards.

Joseph Schenck, acting under President Roosevelt as vice-president in the national drive for infantile paralysis funds, was so successful he raised $85,000 from California alone! Schenck, in conjunction with Eddie Cantor's broadcast appeal, collected 16 per cent of all the monies turned into the fund.

Unsung hero: Benny Baker mailed his wife a dozen of the latest hats from New York . . . and they all fit perfectly!

George Jessel will have a concession at the New York World's Fair . . . is titling it "Old New York" . . . built in the fashion of the '90s. It will contain the only kosher restaurant on the grounds.

Paul Muni is scheduled for a new type of characterization as Joseph Pulitzer, founder of the New York World. Story is being scenarized by Louis Weitzenkorn, one time editor of the Sunday World.

Maxie Rosenbloom's request to dignify his name to M. Welton Rosenbloom was refused . . . execs believe that a "rose by any other name is not as sweet". Maxie is still a fighter at heart . . . checks his shoelaces before entering the set.

Schmus from Talke-Town: The other day Director Michael Curtiz, mangle of meanings, shouted at an actor, "I never liked you and I always did!" William Ludwig, scribbler, will marry Dr. Hugo Riesendorf's offspring, Sue. Charlie Ruggles (not a Semite) calls his pet money Schlemiel . . . but the monk isn't so dumb . . . has earned a thousand dollars for cameracting. The Ritzes will appear at the N. Y. World's Fair . . . will reserve one night for the benefit of the Brooklyn Home for Incurables, an institution founded by their mother. Frances Brice, Fannie's 17-year-old, got a job as stand-in for her mother. Youngster believes that is a good way to begin a screen career on which she is determined. A tribute is tendered the late Irving Thalberg at Dartmouth College where a screen writing class has been named, "The Irving Thalberg Memorial Course."

The Ernst Lubitch stork delivery was a girl . . . ditto the John Garfield's. Latter had a wager up that his would be a boy. After a visit with his daughter, Elaine Barrie, Mr. Jacobs is back on his old coffee route in Manhattan. Papa evidently finds glamour more tiring than work.

It is not true that Our Sammy said he would okay a script of "Beverly of Graustark", mythical kingdom drama, "on condition that it contain no scene which might offend a mythical kingdom!"

But Sahib Goldwyn was heard to declare in a conference the other day, "Gentlemen, for your information—let me ask you a question!"

'S all today, folks.

Ghost Of '69

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

NEW YORK.—In 1869, some sixty-nine years ago, Princeton met Rutgers in the first inter-collegiate football game in America and it was on that historic day that the now classical expression, "I'd die for dear old Rutgers," originated. Rutgers won the game that day and Fred Willner, the only Jewish member of the Scarlet team, was the first Jewish football player in America.

Recently, Rutgers dedicated a new stadium directly across the banks of the Raritan from the field where the first Princeton game had been played. The Scarlet opponent, suitably enough, again was the Tiger from Princeton. Rutgers won again, its first victory since that day in '69 and its first in 34 games with the Tiger since '69. A fourth down forward pass in the final quarter tossed by Arthur Gottlieb into the waiting arms of another Rutgers man decided the score. Today Gottlieb is a hero on the Rutgers campus.

PLEASUREVILLE COMPLAINS

News was just about to go to press when a local youth was killed in a plane crash. That, of course, made headlines. The other beat occurred the morning a truck was wrecked by a train a few miles down the line from Pleasureville, also on the verge of press time. And both times Pleasureville got the story first from its local newspaper.

But all this has come to an end, Pleasureville thinks regretfully. For love came at last to Sol Schulman, and this week, in the last issue before his marriage to Miss Elizabeth Baker of Danville, the suspension of the Pleasureville News was announced. Though the publisher regretted the decision no less than the rural folk who came to love him as a brother because of his simple, unassuming manner, Mr. Schulman was forced to admit that as a family man, he will have no time to commute to Pleasureville, 44 miles from Louisville, and so his hobby had to come to an end.

Thus comes about Pleasureville's dislike of Cupid.

Aronson, St. Mary's Jewish Star Wins Catholic Sportsmanship Award

By MORRIS WEINER

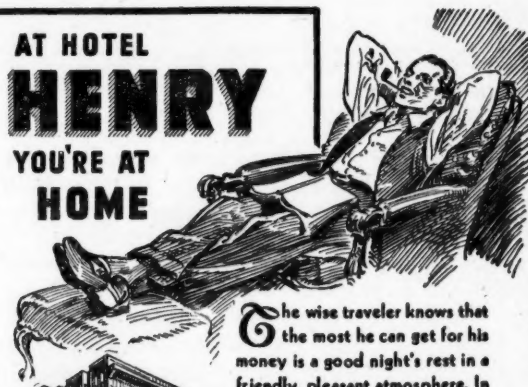

NEW YORK.—Talk about democracy, the hands across the sea spirit and all that sort of thing! Harry Aronson, the Jewish boy who plays so well in the St. Mary's backfield, was awarded the trophy donated by the Catholic Youth Association as "the man who best exemplified the true spirit of sportsmanship in the game between Fordham and St. Marys."

This was Harry's third trip East for a football game with the lads from Rose Hill. On each occasion Aronson has been an outstanding man for the Galloping Gaels. Slip Madigan's men from the Moraga Valley in California put up a game fight annually in what has come to be known as an intersectional classic and though they haven't won a game from the Fordham Rams since 1934 a Jewish ace has been playing a leading role in making the bells of St. Mary ring out over the land. In fact, according to the Gael's publicity man, Madigan is a gent who thinks of everything. He always tries hard to enroll a good Jewish football player at the Coast college expressly for the Fordham game and the New York clientele. He hasn't been forced to meet that requirement for some time now because, "I've had Aronson—in fact still have him—for the past three years as my varsity right half back and before him I had Tony Falkenstein in the backfield. Both of these kids are Jewish and both are plenty good."

The Catholic Youth Organization's trophy is a richly decorated silver cup that stands thirty inches high and is surmounted with the winged figure of the spirit of sportsmanship.

Is the Indianapolis Jewish community over-organized?

This year more than any other, complaints are being heard on all sides that the city is over-burdened with too many Jewish organizations, that there are too many meetings to attend, that the same group of active workers do all the work.

If any evidence of over-organization were needed, then one look at our Calendar of Events for last week should be convincing. Sunday there were six separate meetings; Monday there were three, Tuesday four, and Wednesday five. Eighteen in four days.

But that is only one side of the story. Have you ever lived in a city in which there was practically no Jewish organization. Where there was no Zionist District, where a B'nai B'rith meeting with fifty in attendance was hailed as an indication of the approach of the Messiah? Well, I have. And needless to say, my choice is Indianapolis. Everywhere, all over the country, wherever you go, people talk about the splendid Jewish community Indianapolis has. It is enheartening. It makes one proud to hear our B'nai B'rith, or our Hadassah, or our Zionist District, or our Jewish Welfare Federation or Kirshbaum Center praised by other communities. Yes, all Indianapolis needs now is a good Jewish newspaper.

One indication of lack of community support that might deserve a berating is the poor Jewish attendance at the Kirshbaum Forum. It's not a matter of cost, because Kirshbaum members are admitted free. That is why the poor attendance is all the more puzzling. Certainly every Jew in this city would have enjoyed hearing Dr. Paul Popenow Sunday a week ago. Yet the attendance figures show that slightly under 100 Jews were in the audience.

If you think the answer is in the fact that the speaker is not Jewish, then read this. Last year at the Dr. Sachar lecture only 125 Jews attended.

Maybe we're no longer people of the book. Maybe card playing, movies, and dancing have taken their toll of Jewish culture. Kirshbaum forums are almost invariably intensely interesting, always the topics of discussion are current problems. If you lived in a city where there was no forum, where there was no Kirshbaum Center, then no doubt you'd appreciate both the forum and the center. Be that as it may, for the next lecture, that of Gov. Phil LaFollette on December 11, let's have a better turn-out. O.K.?

Mrs. Silberman Delegate To Hadassah Convention

Mrs. S. A. Silberman will be a delegate from the Indianapolis Hadassah to the 13th annual Mid-West Conference of Hadassah in the Schroeder Hotel in Milwaukee, Sunday and Monday, Nov. 27 and 28. Rabbi Morton Berman of Chicago will be the principal speaker at the banquet Sunday evening.

Anyone wishing to attend should make reservations before Nov. 25 with Mrs. Herman Levitz, 3331 Murray Ave., Milwaukee.

When Rabbi Goldman Returns

WHEN Solomon Goldman returns from England shortly, he will have orders for American Jewry which we must not fail to execute swiftly and completely. If the crisis has been successfully passed, we must take care that we not allow ourselves to be maneuvered again into a position where the loss of Palestine will be the price of our defection. It is an old story that American Jewry's refusal to see the potentialities of Palestine as a Jewish homeland in the 1920's ended this year in near disaster. But the lesson of that story must not be forgotten. When Rabbi Goldman returns, American Jews must be prepared to follow his leadership and orders.

Apologetics

WHEN Senator Burke of Nebraska returned from a visit to Germany with paeans of praise for Hitler's regeneration of the Germans, The Jewish Press, of Omaha, Neb., apologized for the Senator, saying in so many words that the Senator really didn't mean what he said. That may be so. Senator Burke may really be so dumb that he doesn't know what he is saying, or understand the tremendous implications in his approval of the Nazis.

But now comes The Jewish Press with more apologetics. In the Current Comment below, is reprinted two views on Senator Borah's refusal to address a Zionist mass meeting. If further proof is needed for the error in the Press' apology, it may be found in the success of the nationwide protest in forestalling the partition of Palestine.

Current Comment

The Two Sides of The Senator Borah Situation as Presented by The Jewish Press of Omaha and The B'nai B'rith Messenger of Los Angeles.

—Senator Borah has incurred the wrath of several Jewish leaders by his refusal to address a Zionist mass meeting. To quote Mr. Borah, "We may not be helping the cause in which you are interested by holding a mass meeting which would have no justification except on the theory that she is proposing to do a reprehensible thing." Going on, the Senator said, "By directing nations how they shall carry out their treaties without at the same time being prepared to assume mandatory obligations herself" the United States cannot retain Europe's respect.

We are tempted to agree with the gentleman from Idaho. Zionist activity these past few weeks has been occasioned by rumors that Britain is contemplating drastic changes in her Palestine policy. The rumor undoubtedly has some basis, but we have become suspicious of rumors emanating from the British colonial office. It seems that if Jewish groups are well informed as to British policy in Palestine, it is only because the British want them to be.

The Jewish pressure on the American state department is based on a joint resolution by which the United States recognized the validity of Jewish claims. That every Jew should be awake to this threat to Palestine is most essential at this crucial and tragic period. Not all Jews may accept the Zionist ideal, but it must not be forgotten that Palestine remains the only hope, the sole refuge of the Jews of Europe.

But it must also be remembered that Britain holds the Mandate over Palestine. It is Britain who governs the "twice-promised" land, they are British troops that guard the country. The United States congress in its joint resolution did not assume any more than a moral obligation for the continued well-being of Palestine.

At the present time the United States is pursuing a policy of isolation, a policy justified in the light of recent events abroad. In 1919, at a time when she was less isolatory, the United States refused a mandate in the Near East, although the Arabs had expressed a desire that America, rather than France or England be given power over them.

Already an important British paper has declared itself in favor of America assuming the mandate if she is so interested in Palestine. Harassed Britain does not have American support; it is unlikely that she will take well to her interference.

Palestine is Britain's care. We may not like the mandatory's method of carrying out the charge, but we must resign ourselves to the fact that the interests of Palestine will under no circumstances conflict with the interests of Great Britain.

America may demand protection for her economic stakes in Palestine. But beyond that she cannot go.

The B'nai B'rith Messenger.—Senator William Borah's warning that America is on dangerous ground in protesting Great Britain's handling of the Palestine situation cannot be lightly dismissed, as so many Zionists feel. Borah's statement, reprinted in yesterday's papers, held that protests against British action are useless "unless we are prepared to go much farther than this country would be willing to go, and assume primary obligations in regard to this matter ourselves."

It is not too far from the issue to point out that America and Great Britain are still governed democratically, and that mass meetings such as those held here last Sunday do have their repercussions elsewhere. If no pains were taken to bring our feelings on so vital a matter into the open, no way would exist for British policymakers to be informed of them. They may not be affected in the least by what millions of Jews and Christians overseas may say with regard to their foreign policy—but it is much more likely that they will be so affected.

As to the dangerous and delicate situation which Mr. Borah is so anxious over, let the fears of the Senator from Idaho be laid to rest. No Jewish American wants America to go to war to protect a handful, relatively speaking, of Jews in Palestine from Arab aggression. The idea that the United States be prevailed upon to undertake implementation of the mandate is even more ridiculous. The entire problem can easily be handled by England, if England so desires.

Britain is perfectly capable of defending its soil simply by defending it, instead of playing both ends against the middle, as she obviously has done in recent years. If Britain is too pure to view the shedding of English blood in defense of her territory, let a Jewish army be equipped to do the things it has been pleading for.

At last reports, England has again sliced the immigration quota to Palestine to 4,870 for the next six months, which is 1,230 less than the previous six months. The new quota—believe it or not—permits 1,150 laborers and 10 orphans, among other classes, to enter. These are the fantastic figures constituting Palestine's "political high level" for Jewish immigration. Even forgetting, as empires are so prone to, the sufferings of the millions of ostracized Jews in Central Europe, and the hope which Palestine still holds out for many of them, it could still be highly feasible to permit a reasonable number of entrants into Palestine without unpleasant consequences.

Answer to the entire problem, in my opinion, lies in these very protest meetings being held in American cities. Obviously, reactionaries both in England and in America will be unaffected by any plea which interferes with the imperial trend of mind. But perhaps the masses of British subjects in England, awakened to the hypocritical leadership represented by Chamberlain, will take unto themselves statesmen who are more interested in preserving the fruits of democracy than in selling out to personally more agreeable totalitarianism.

The concern shown by such organizations as the Federal Council of Churches, the Catholic organizations, the service and civic groups, and the labor and business groups, can only be regarded as the noblest sentiment of which democracy is capable. The spirit of fair play which those groups manifest in this instance cannot be regarded as otherwise but the "American Way." And where else could Mr. Borah see the "American Way" at work outside of these United States?

Compares J. D. C. Quota To Nazi Fine

To the Editor:

When in this country, the Joint Distribution Committee starts to raise $5,000,000 to aid in Jewry's battle for existence, we think it a stupendous undertaking. All over the country the drive is highly organized, from the important personage in New York who is "Honorary Chairman", right on down to the humblest team worker in Waukegan, Illinois. Page after page of publicity material greets us, with distressing statistics, pictures that mirror desperate need, and the most earnest appeals that our leaders can pen. Our most silvery-tongued orators leave the comfort of their homes and dash frantically about the country launching drives in various communities. They paint a moving, gripping picture of our duties and obligations. Our rabbis call for help and guidance from Heaven itself in the stupendous, crushing task that faces us annually—this job of raising five million good American dollars.

All in all, we feel that all the Seven Labors have been dumped in our laps. We are perhaps a little resentful at being called on for such a terrible "sacrifice".

There probably are sacrifices made in raising the $5,000,000. For some it means doing without a new coat, or a new rug in the home, or scrimping on movies. But look now at another picture and see how petty these sacrifices are.

A 17-year-old boy assassinates a Nazi official, and see what happens.

For the 600,000 or 700,000 Jews in Greater Germany, history turns back to the Dark Ages as savagery rules for hours. This pitifully decimated group, already driven to desperation by years of cruel oppression, is told that they must pay a fine of—not $5,000,000—but four hundred million dollars—$400,000,000. That doesn't mean just sacrifice—it means total, absolute destitution. The shoe merchant who in America squawks at digging up $10, in Germany would have to part with $2,000. Mr. Big Business, who here is hailed as a philanthropist for a $10,000 gift, there would be hit for a half million. The men who was a plutocrat yesterday is a pauper today in Germany.

In Berlin, 120 men are told to pay $2,000,000 in two days as a "special assessment" for damage to "Aryan" property by "Aryan" rioters!

We're just plain lucky here, and we don't know what sacrifices mean. We should be ashamed, not only as Jews, but as human beings, to stop at $5,000,000. Indianapolis, Ind. A. M. D.

ARABS AND JEWS

believed here the Government's policy offers to Jews and moderate Arabs a long-sought opportunity for a roundtable conference. However, the implicit refusal by the Government to deal with the ex-Mufti would, it was feared, be the occasion for an increase in the terrorism. Arab newspapers, which quickly conducted a nationwide canvass of the opinions of Arab notables on the statement, summarized Arab opinion as not disheartened by the British Government's "stubbornness" in not fulfilling the Arab demands but pleased that partition had been abandoned.
